

I feel that a gradual increase in driver responsibility is a good thing. It should take about one year to gain full CDL capability. A fully licenced CDL driver would not necessarily be required to observe the new driver. Simply giving the new driver increasing responsibilties and monitoring them would be sufficient.